The Japan Mail is of opinion that when last straw was added when the name of a the community of Yokohama comes to consider the action to which it pleaged itself at the meeting there will be some surprise and even disgust. Evidently the affair has been a rude shock-to-our-contemporary. It has proved conclusively that if not the whole at least a great proportion of the foreign residents at Yokohama are strongly opposed to being be more cruelly displayed than in this wonplaced under Japanese jurisdiction, and that

If it be true that an ounce of Monday for this port. fact is worth a pound of argument it is no less true that an ounce of argument is worth a pound of prejudice -- and opinions unsupported by reason are generally placed under the latter heading. In this instance, however, it is not the case that there were no reasons to advance, but simply that the meeting in its wisdom, or its folly, did not think fit to advance them. By this course they deprived their protest of much of its due weight. But even as the matter stands, neither the Government nor the public at home can be insensible to the importance attaching to the protest of, we may say, the entire foreign community of Japan, for 1 appears to be in contemplation that similar meetings should be held at the other ports, the Crown against highly liberal minded men. The Japan Mail calls this a "silly speech," and speaks of Mr. Brooks as one of the firebrands of the Settlement. Our contemporary says that nearly all the most civilized nations in the West are without of 20 year each; but during the course of the night and brought up before the Mixed Court both habeas corpus and trial by jury, and Japan also can very well afford to dispense with them. Still more unfor tunate was it that her commander should have selected the present month, proverbially prolific of storms in these span, for commencing the homeward voyage.

INCOMPETENT QUARTERMASTERS AND THE NAVIGATION OF THE OHINA COAST.

A correspondent writes to the Mercury

Some years ago in Shanghai nearly all the steamers out of the port carried four European quartermasters and their pay was $30 per month and in addition they were well found from the salcon table. The most of the S.S.N. Co,'s steamers carried them and the captains could depend on their vessels being well steered and on getting good casts of the lead on a dark night, and in port the chief officer could depend on them to stop the crew smuggling contraand on board at night. As ateamors increased in Shanghai a splendid class of quartermesters came forward, principally Manilamen and Malays. They were splendid leadsmen, and running up the rivers on a dark night you could depend on the soundings they gave to an inch. The belief appears to be strong among the natives of all classes that the drain of manay perpetually going on cannot long continue. The idea of the year i of necessary quie sence of capital is new to a land whose interest is ordinarily-calculated by the month. Of course foreigners look on with sympathetic eyes. It is true the schemes ere too much ruled apparently by impulse," regardless of expense"; it is true that Chang Ohih-tung appears to have little ides of the training necessary to therough work in manufacture, and will probably have to learn by bittor experience that the fruits of Western solence if grasped too eagerly and ignorantly leave thorns in incorated hands. But the sim is all in the right direction; personal ambition seems really to have patriotism as its associaterather than avarice; and we carnestly hope for the good of China that no failure through precipitancy will throw back the cause of progress for years. With all the powerful influence in Peking which side local jealousy in thwarting him, the Vicercy of the Hukuang bould be very careful lest lack of moderation and seuse of proportion entail most serious damage to the success of the attempt to enrich China by means she at present so imperfectly understands.—N.
